

Read the following passage carefully.

Granny Nell

My favourite relative is Granny Nell. She looks just like any other little old grandmother. Her hair is black with streaks of grey through it. She has lots of wrinkles because she likes to laugh a lot and enjoys life. She wears little spectacles perched on the end of her nose like little canaries on a branch in a cage. She is short and round and seems to shrink each time we see her. (paragraph 1)

Granny Nell is less active than before. When she walks she hurts because her hip is weaker than before. When her hip feels better, she is still a little wary about moving around too much. We decide to buy her a walker. She likes to say that she finally has her own hot rod. We are thinking about putting a 'Beware' sign on the walker. There is no stopping her now! (paragraph 2)

She spends a lot of time watching television. I think the noise makes her feel as if there are lots of people around. (paragraph 3)

Granny Nell is never pushy. She does not say that her ideas are the right ones and that your opinion does not count. She listens when I tell her things, no matter how silly they may be. I think that is the main reason why Granny Nell is my favourite relative. She lets me just be me. (paragraph 4)
